Supplementary figure 1. Positive cone mosaic observed at different level of focus, showing that defocusing did not result in a switch to negative mosaic (see also figure 4).
Supplementary figure 2. Comparison of a raw and processed image from the same area showing negative cones. The raw image had only brightness and contrast adjustment. Arrows show examples of corresponding cones in both images.