Figure S3. Mean following responses after transient motion pulses. The eye velocity traces projected on to the target motion direction is shown as a function of time relative to motion-pulse onset for two conditions: after saccade when the stimulus was viewed foveally (black) and when the stimulus was viewed peripherally during covert attention (brown). Error bars are ± 2SEM.