Supplementary table S3 shows the correlation between the extent of actuation and unintentional movements at axis X, Y, Z for Surgeon 1 and 2 using 23g forceps with handle 2. Statistically significant positive correlation with actuation at mixed and low frequencies were found in both users. In user 2 this correlation was present at higher frequencies as well.